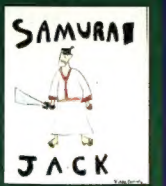
JOHNNY DC SAYS: LET THE MAIL BEGIN!

Dear Johnny DC,

A month ago, I read the first issue of CARTOON NETWORK ACTION PACK (CNAP). I read the page where it told us about the heroes in CNAP. In the BEN 10 section, it said that he was on vacation with his grandpa and his SISTER Gwen. Isn't Gwen his cousin?

Steven Sokolowski, age 10
Wantage, New Jersey

Ben says, "THANK YOU, Steven! You're RIGHT! It's bad enough that pest Gwen is my cousin! If she was my SISTER, I'd have to live with her ALL YEAR 'ROUND!!"
— Johnny DC



DRAWING BY VINNY CACCIOLA FROM NEW YORK

Dear Johnny DC,

I enjoyed CARTOON NETWORK ACTION PACK #1 and the new stories of MEGAS XLR, Rowdyruff Boys, and SAMURAI JACK.

I was glad Samurai Jack was able to have enough nerve to chop the ropes leading to the portal to his home. Aku made the decision very tough.

I imagine Samurai Jack will have many more battles with Aku.

I've watched MEGAS XLR a couple of times on Cartoon Network. I was glad, though, to get the refresher on the character names that was on the letters page. I thought the show translated really well into your "Speed Limit" story. I thought of the movie SPEED when Gorrath launched the Glorft Velocity Bomb. A big difference, though, was that the bomb would have destroyed Jersey City and not just a city bus.

I really liked "Anything Boys Can Do, Squirrels Can Do Better." I never recalled seeing Twitchy the Squirrel in the cartoon. I have not watched every episode, though. Christopher Cook did an excellent job as penciller. I hope that Phil Moy can do a few covers for CNAP.

I look forward to reading more issues of CARTOON NETWORK ACTION PACK.

Allen Klingelhoets
Barron, Wisconsin

Twitchy the Powerpuff Squirrel is a comic book original! He first appeared in POWERPUFF GIRLS #1 (which was reprinted in #70). However, that story did inspire an episode about a super-powered squirrel on the PPG show.
— Johnny DC

"COME OUT OF YOUR CORNERS FIGHTING!" BY MICHAEL SOKOLOWSKI

Dear Johnny DC,

I've only started reading your comics and I think they're great! I wish I could be just like you and make comics.

Amber Auslander, age 7
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

You CAN make comics, Amber! You can draw comics with a pencil and show them to your family. You can make photocopies of your comics and show them to your friends and classmates. You can make them alone or make them with friends. When you get older, you can print your comics or put them on the web. And, of course, a few lucky adults make comics for a job!
— Johnny DC

"ONE PANEL OF A COMIC BY AMBER AUSLANDER"

Dear Johnny DC,

The drawing below is my hero, Supergirllight. For her powers, she uses real light, a mace, a bow and arrow, and she can shapeshift.

P.S. She can fly.

Ben Sanson, age 9
Deville, Louisiana

DRAWING BY BEN SANSON

This is your page, readers! You can write about the comics, like Steven and Allen, or draw the cartoon characters, like Vinny and Michael, or you can make up your own monsters (Aku-style) and robots (Megas-style). Send them to me at the address below:
